

Why do Axia consoles do phones best?
(Hint: who's your daddy?)

Other consoles treat phones like an afterthought. But Axia's parent company is Telos, so phones are part of our DNA. Consider our Element AoIP console, and the Telos VX broadcast VoIP phone system. Both amazing on their own. But when you connect them — magic. Total integration, so talent can run complex talkshows without taking their hands off the board. Effortless. A dedicated hybrid for each caller, each assigned to its own fader, with automatic mix-minus and talkback. Painless hookup via CAT-5 — no extra I/O or logic connections required. An all-digital path for crystal-clear caller audio, even from cell phones. That's the Telos connection. And only Axia gets it. Axia: the console that talks Telos.

axiaaudio.com